THE NAKED RACER

During the winter end of month runs we try and plan for indoor venues. The Naked Racer Museum and Café has become a firm favourite we intend to add to our annual Callender. There are so many things to look at and explore, and the displays are changed or altered every few months so it is ever evolving. From vintage motorcycles to all sorts of relics and memorabilia from the past. The facility is not just a museum but a dynamic hub for motorcycle enthusiasts, featuring an extensive collection that captures the spirit of motorcycling history. It was a perfect Sunday afternoon place to be on a cold winters day, and our members enjoyed lunch and a browse. Some met at Baxter Tavern and travelled together, whilst most met at the venue. It was a day for the not so brave and fool hearty to take their new cars .... With seat warmers and heating.

THE SCHIPPER BROTHERS STORY

It all started in the early 1970s .....

We were just teenage brothers looking for something to do. On a trip out to Ballarat, we spotted a Lincoln car sitting in a paddock. We bought it for a few hundred bucks, dragged it home, and discovered it was a 1931 Hillman Wizard 6-cylinder.

Not long after, we came across a better one ..... a 1933 Hillman Wizard 7. The first was used for parts, and the second has been on the road since 1978.

: The beginning of it all—my first Hillman Wizard.

The 1933 Hillman Wizard 7—still going strong after all these years.

In the early eighties, we bought a T-model Ford. We started with just a chassis and some body parts, attending swap meets for about three years.

Eventually, we were able to collect all the parts needed to complete the car. It was put on the road in the mid-eighties. The car was used in a TV series called The Waterfront. We've had many years of enjoyment with it and is still part of the club and currently in storage—hopefully we'll get it back on the road again ..... And fully restored.

Mum and Dads Oakland

Over the years, we also restored a 1926 Oakland for Mum and Dad. They had many years of enjoyment, including trips to Halls Gap in the Oakland. John and Joyce Robertson joined them on that trip.

We also worked on a 1973 Overland Boat (US) which needed some minor nearside repairs. Later, Bill and I restored another 1936 Oakland with all the space we had. I built most of the body during night school in those days.

By the early 1990s, the car was on the road. It's still in the club book and on plates. We plan to have it back on the road soon.

ONCE UPON A TIME
THERE WAS A BOY

WHO REALLY REALLY LOVED CARS
IT WAS ME. THE END.

The Oakland we restored later

I have also got a HR Holden, a 1937 Plymouth, and an A-model Ford in the works .....enough to keep me busy in retirement.

All in good fun..... JOHN SCHIPPER

CAR CARE CORNER

By Bernie Valentini — (VACC Certified SMM)

Hello fellow club members,

Thought I would send you all a reminder on how to ....

SAVE YOUR CLUTCH IN CARS WITH MANUAL TRANSMISSIONS !

There are things you should NOT do while driving a manual car .....

Some drivers have bad habits that should be avoided when driving a manual transmission vehicle. Many people are unaware of the seriousness of the situation or how little care can protect your transmission components over time. Many drivers, without realizing it, have these habits. These habits can cause significant wear to the transmission's components over time.

1- Use The Clutch As A Brake

Unlike brakes designed specifically for deceleration, the clutch is intended for engaging and disengaging from the transmission to enable smooth gear changes. When used as a brake, the clutch experiences excessive wear due to prolonged friction and heat buildup, potentially causing premature failure of clutch components such as the friction disc and pressure plate.

2- Keep Your Hand On The Gear

Even seasoned drivers have the habit of driving with one hand on the gear lever. It is important to understand that it exerts a certain amount of pressure on the gear lever as it is translated to the gear selector forks below. As a result, the selector fork rubs against the gears, potentially causing premature wear. Furthermore, steering the car with only one hand is never a good idea. As a result, both hands should be on the steering wheel in the ideal situation.

3- Aren't Using Neutral At Traffic Lights

Many people keep their cars in first gear whilst sitting at traffic lights. The clutch should not be pressed for extended periods of time while in gear. Putting the car in neutral and lifting your foot off the clutch pedal is the best way to do this. Otherwise, the throwout bearing will be subjected to unnecessary wear.

4-Half Clutch Press

When driving uphill, many drivers still use the half-clutch pressing technique. While this method does not cause the engine to die, it can cause the clutch plate to wear out faster and become thinner over time.

5- Suddenly Taking The Clutch Off

The habit of suddenly pressing or releasing the clutch can be dangerous because it creates a lot of friction. To maintain clutch life, it is strongly advised to release the clutch slowly after moving the transmission lever.

6- Gear Position Mismatch

At low speeds, avoid using a high gear. This is equivalent to increasing the clutch's workload and allowing the clutch lining to slip. If you do the opposite, which is to drive in low gear at high speed, you can have a similar effect. As a result, it is preferable and safer to avoid this practice!

7- While Driving, Resting Your Foot On The Clutch

Many people who drive old cars face this problem due to the lack of dead pedals in the vehicle. Modern cars, on the other hand, have dead pedals that allow your foot to rest while not shifting gears. People still have the old habit of keeping one foot on the clutch pedal. This may cause the clutch to slip and will reduce the lifespan of your clutch.

Keeping these tips in mind will increase the life of your clutch.

Cheers .... Bernie Valentini.
